DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-40 are directed to a judicial exception. There are two ways to provide a practical application of a judicial exception: (1) physical transformation or (2) produce a useful, concrete and tangible result. The instant claims 1-24 are useful and concrete but without the claim of a tangible result.

Regarding specific claim 1, 25 and 32, the mere calculating available charge would not appear to be sufficient to constitute a tangible result, since the outcome of the calculating step has not been used in a disclosed practical application nor made available in such a manner that its usefulness in a disclosed application can be realized.

Claims 2-40 have similar deficiencies. The steps are either calculating step, interpolating step and/or renewing the data step, which are all merely number manipulating which would not considered as tangible results.
